Culver to Tour Disaster Area

CEDAR RAPIDS

Congressman John C. Culver was en route to Iowa Friday afternoon to coordinate federal disaster relief efforts in Oelwein, Maynard and the surrounding areas.

Culver received word of the tornado damage when he arrived in Malta on Thursday to participate in a weekend Anglo-American Parliamentary Conference sponsored by private foundations in the United States and England.

He departed Malta on the first available return flight and is due in Cedar Rapids at 6 p.m. Friday.

The Second District Congressman will tour the disaster area Saturday, and will arrange a public meeting in Oelwein with representatives of the appropriate federal agencies, local officials and residents in the near future.

He has already contacted the Office of Emergency Planning, the Secretary of Agriculture and the Administrator of Small Business Administration to urge immediate formal disaster designation of the area, so that homeowners, farmers and businessmen will be eligible for low interest long-term loans and other emergency assistance.

In addition Culver requested that the leadership of the House of Representatives schedule for floor action pending legislation to provide emergency assistance to farmers and rural homeowners.

He has been advised by Majority Leader Carl Alberts, D-Ola., that the legislation which transfers existing funds from the commodity Credit Corp. to the revolving emergency loan fund of the Farmers' Home Administration will be considered in the House next week.
